

FY2026 Activity Report

2025/7/1 – 2026/6/30

Specified non-profit organization
Habitat for Humanity Japan (Habitat Japan)

1 Overall result of activity

No sooner had the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic fully subsided than the turmoil in the global economy caused by the outbreak of the Iran War accelerated the long-standing trend of yen depreciation, which had a significant impact on Habitat Japan's activities, particularly in the second half of the fiscal year. The number of participants in the GV program remained at 379—on par with the previous fiscal year—falling short of our target of 500. Furthermore, regarding Project HomeWorks (domestic housing support activities), which was suspended at the end of the previous fiscal year, support was limited to existing cases, resulting in a significant decrease in participation by individual volunteers. However, as in the previous fiscal year, many volunteers—including those from corporate partners and campus chapters—continued to participate in the Facility Improvement Program and Youth Program.

Through these activities, we expanded our network of partners who share our organization's philosophy and the significance of our work. We also communicated widely to society about various housing issues and the importance of civic participation.
